Thought for the Week

Programming today, is a race between software engineers striving to build bigger and better idiot-proof programmes and the universe trying to produce bigger and better idiots, So far the universe is winning.

Presidents Remarks - Jack Odgers

Pres. Jack read a letter from a lady called Shelley Carpenter, she is the mother of the young blind boy, Bailey, that the Club purchased the aid for.

It is called a Mini Guide, it is a hand held device, which he will use in conjunction of a cane and it apparently vibrates as he nears obstacles.

This was given to him for Christmas.

They have offered to attend a Club meeting to demonstrate it's use.

Highlights

Lyn's granddaughter is in Thailand on her training camp, prior to going to the Teen Australia camp and Lyn's daughter is on Pentecost Island, in Vanuatu, also doing aid work.

Birthdays & Anniversaries

Michele owned up to an upcoming wedding anniversary, though she would not say how many.

REPORTSClub Service - Soto Stuppos

Soto advised that he is preparing the costs of making the building alterations at Rotary Pavilion.

He is also investigating an electronic rodent deterrent, to try to stop the mouse problem there.

Naturally, someone suggested that we should get a couple of snakes to control the mice, sounds like the old lady who swallowed a fly!!

Sergeant - Peter Nichols

As usual, Peter managed to fine us all, for real or imagined misdemeanours

GUEST SPEAKER

John Cagney

Hobbies.

As Programme Officer, John has come up with the suggestion that Members could speak at our fourth meeting each month on any hobbies or interests they have.

To start the ball rolling, John spoke on his main interests, golf is one and he reckons a membership at the Grange Club in Adelaide, is his biggest indulgence, two other interests are photography and music, mainly playing the guitar.

John did surprise us all, by admitting that he does not own a shed, or much in the way of a tool kit!

Keith also admitted to both failings.

He showed two slide presentations which he put together and gives to visitors to the town.

The first was entitled Visions of Whyalla. This was not the normal tourist type of pictures, but caught a few different views of the town.

The other was titled the Road Home and was of views he had taken on the road from Adelaide to Whyalla.

These were mainly late afternoon and evening shots and displayed our sunsets to perfection.

John had set music to the presentations from the Adelaide University Band, which his son had played in.

Just a thought,

You know when you are getting old, the bits that work hurt and the bits that don't hurt, don't work
